

This editorial is a calculated risk—that is, it may offend a lot of persons. I know that in advance; but I am writing it just the same as an expression of my conviction as to what constitutes sound public policy for our country.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, grandson of the senator who defeated Woodrow Wilson's League of Nations proposal, Governor Dewey of New York, and other Far East Republicans, are promoting the candidacy of General Dwight D. Eisenhower for President.

I don't propose to vote for any professional Army man for President—now or ever. And I recommend that all Americans give prayerful study to the matter before they ever consider doing so.

This is no reflection whatsoever on General Eisenhower—country boy from Kansas who followed his chosen career to international fame. He is admired and trusted wholeheartedly by the American people, and by most of the peoples who live this side of the Iron Curtain.

But he is a professional military man who has devoted his whole life to the Army, or diplomacy closely related to Army matters.

Now our American republic was founded on the gospel that the civil government should be supreme. All our traditions and practices have been that men should try for lesser civil offices, school themselves in the art of politics—which is just as honorable a career as government itself—and so eventually prepare themselves for a chance at the highest political office in the land.

How does a wholly military career fit any man for our top political office? History says it absolutely does not. History says our greatest failures in the Presidency have in fact been generals. No. 1 among such failures being U. S. Grant.

We have in this generation two great military figures—Eisenhower and MacArthur. Disappointed politicians have persisted in trying to involve both of them as candidates for the Presidency. MacArthur has wisely removed his name from political speculation. Eisenhower should do the same.

America's need is great—but it is a need for a man who would earnestly great and honorable work by trapping them into an office for which they have neither training nor desire, as evidenced by their life-long devotion to the armed forces which defend this country.

America stands at the crossroads in one of history's dangerous hours, with a vast rearmament program at work and with fighting men and equipment flung to the far corners of the earth.

We say that we come bringing peace to the earth. But hostile propagandists say we are imperialists and that our goal is war and conquest.

What will the world say if we pick for President a general—any general?

GO's Cheer News About Eisenhower

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower proclaimed himself a Republican today, and made it clear he would accept that party's Presidential nomination if it is offered. But he said he won't actively seek it.

This statement from a man who has been working for his nomination and have felt themselves handicapped by the general's long silence.

The "go ahead" which Eisenhower in effect gave his backers today will let them press their campaign for him with more assurance.

Another practical effect of today's statement was to pull the rug from under those Democrats who have been beating the drums for the nomination of Eisenhower by their party.

At the White House, aides said President Truman had no comment on Eisenhower's name has figured in Presidential speculation ever since he let the Allies to victory over the axis powers in Europe in 1945.

There were Eisenhower-for-president booms in both major parties in 1948 despite his disavowal of political ambitions.

The booms persisted until he announced with complete finality that he would not accept such a nomination ever if it were given to him.

16 Persons May Have Died in Apartment Fire

Westfield, Mass., Jan. 7 (AP)—Fourteen persons, and possibly 16, were believed today to have perished in an apartment-house fire which broke out in a building in Westfield, Mass., today.

Police and Red Cross officials said as far as they have been able to determine 14 were at home at the time of the fire and did not get out in time.

Two others were said to be in a fifth-floor bowling alley but police won't agree to verify that up to an early hour.

All five floors collapsed into the cellar in a tangled mass of burning wreckage that firemen found impossible to probe immediately.

Fourteen other persons were injured, 12 seriously enough to be kept at Noble hospital. The other two were discharged after treatment.

Fire Chief Jeremiah A. Moriarty estimated property damage at "more than one million dollars."

One of the walls collapsed at the height of the blaze and crashed through the roof of an adjoining one-story block of stores.

Robert L. Greaney, a Navy man on leave, Chester Dawicki, an Air Force man also on leave, and Ming-Gro Grunier were credited with saving five persons who were on the post of collapse when reached.

Greaney later re-entered the building but was forced back when flames burned the coat off his back and singed his hair.

He said that as he left the building the second time he could hear a woman shouting, "Help me, I'm burning."

Jerry Murphy, who recently came here from Ireland, carried two women down a fire escape—one on each shoulder.

The building was made of brick and was the largest business-apartment block in this city of 27,000 population.

The first floor had stores, the second, third and fourth had professional offices and apartments, and the fifth a bowling alley.

Strong Winds Whip Chesapeake

By The Associated Press
Strong winds born of a vicious storm 300 miles east of Chesapeake Bay whipped the East Coast today from New England to Cape Hatteras, N. C.

Northern New England also had sub-zero temperatures and was on the eastern end of a band of snow flurries extending through the lower Great Lakes region and upper Ohio Valley.

It was snowing in Washington and Oregon, and raining in parts of Southern California.

Elsewhere, it was mostly fair. There were below zero temperatures in the Northern Plains, Northern Rockies and in Eastern Iowa.

Mrs. Mary Lemley Succumbs at The Age of 94

Mrs. Mary Kendall Lemley, aged 94, died Saturday afternoon at the home of a son, United States District Judge Harry J. Lemley. A native of Virginia, Mrs. Lemley had lived in Hope since 1913.

She is survived by one son, Municipal Judge W. Kendall Lemley of Hope and a daughter, Mrs. Hosca Garrett of Gastonia, N. C.

Funeral services were held at the home of Judge Harry J. Lemley at 3 p.m. Sunday with the Rev. L. T. Lawrence, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Burial was in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Atlantic City Hotels Razed by Fire

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 7 (UP)—One of the worst fires in Atlantic City history destroyed three hotels, 12 rooming houses a theater and two fire engines in a two-block area today before it was brought under control.

In addition, the entire wooden wing of the 12-story St. Charles hotel, one of the 13 major hotels on the famous ocean front boardwalk, was gutted.

Atlantic City Fire Chief Rex Markley said an estimate of $22,000,000 damage is extremely conservative, but declined to name a specific figure.

The St. Charles caught fire when the wind shifted after firemen thought they had the blaze under control. About 100 guests were evacuated from the Bracke Hotel one block east, but were permitted to return an hour later.

Most of the buildings were closed for the season and unoccupied. No one was injured, firemen reported.

A 30-mile-an-hour wind in sub-freezing temperatures whipped the flames from the frame seven-story Congress Hotel on St. Charles Place to the five-story Lorraine Hotel. Then the fire jumped to the New Davis Hotel, the Congress and Lorraine had 150 rooms each and the Davis 125 rooms. All were burned to the ground.

Four multi-story frame rooming houses on St. Charles Place, seven guest houses on States avenue, and one on New Jersey avenue were engulfed before firemen succeeded in stopping the sheet of fire.

The Globe Theatre next to the Lorraine Hotel was burned out and a row of business establishments in the same block were badly damaged.

Flames rolling out of the St. Charles Hotel trapped and destroyed two fire engines at St. Charles Place and the boardwalk.

At least 100 persons fled from their homes, carrying belongings, as sparks were blown to nearby roofs and porches. Homeowners were busy stamping out or dousing small fires which flared up.

During the height of the fire, a 150-foot solid sheet of flame rolled out of the row of rooming houses. The northeast wind was blowing toward the ocean, thus saving the resort city from a possible major disaster. Sparks and embers were blown out over the water.

Vishinsky Asks UN to Take Up Korean War

Paris, Jan. 7 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky said today the Korean truce talks have reached a deadlock. He urged a high level Security Council meeting to help break it.

Vishinsky told the United Nations political committee "we want these negotiations concluded successfully and quickly" and said "let's have a Security Council meeting, consisting of high-level persons, get together and try to help them."

He said the Soviet proposal would not break up the talks at the front but would merely consider ways of helping get them out of the rut "in which they have been floundering for six months."

Such a council meeting, attended by foreign ministers or chiefs of state, he said, would not delay the talks at Pannumjon and would not have the effect of shifting the negotiations from Korea to Paris.

Both British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd and U. S. delegate Benjamin Cohen had charged that adoption of the Soviet plan would delay or disrupt the talks and, moreover, would probably increase rather than decrease international tension.

They said Russia would use such a special meeting as a propaganda forum for attacks on the West.

Vishinsky answered: "Our sharp words hurt you? Well, gentlemen, you use some sharp words too."

Stone Walls of an Old Parish Church Saved Hundreds During the Recent Philippine Typhoon

By HAL BOYLE
New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—A young man today told how the stone walls of an old parish church saved hundreds of lives during a typhoon that laid waste much of the Philippines last month.

The temple, the most terrible in the memory of the islanders, was described by Sister Maria Constancia Pena in a letter of appeal to the Very Rev. Ulric Arcand, Apostolic missionary of the Philippines, whose headquarters are in Manila.

"The sight of the debris is very sickening—it can drive you crazy if you don't stop thinking about it," she wrote in a graphic eyewitness account of the storm.

Sister Maria Constancia is a teacher in Assumption College in Gumbay, a town of 25,000 population on the island of Samar in the harlequin central Philippines.

She said the fury of battering winds and tidal waves had left almost the entire population of the town homeless, penniless, and without proper food or clothing. Scores of other towns are in the same plight.

"Gumbay now is like Manila after the liberation—all in ruins," she wrote. "It is hard to describe in words."

"Twenty-five per cent of the houses were carried into the Pacific by the angry waves, and the rest were left in ruins, with the roofs flying," her letter continued. The men joined townspeople who had crowded by the hundreds into the parish church.

"Men, women, children, and babies were there—crying, shouting, praying, moaning with pain on account of the windows and doors of the church being blown away."

China Doesn't Want Armistice Says Adm. Joy

Whimsan, Korea, Jan. 7 (AP)—The United Nations' chief truce negotiator said today there are growing indications that the Communists do not want a stable armistice in Korea.

Today's report from Pannumjon was the now familiar "no progress."

"If the Communists 'are acting in good faith and sincerely want peace, there can be no reason for them to construct military airfields during the period of an armistice,'" said Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy.

He flew to Tokyo for conferences with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied commander.

"If, on the other hand, the Communists are acting in bad faith and are, in fact, preparing for war, the construction of military airfields becomes, and is, a matter of great urgency to them," Joy added.

The Reds reiterated their insistence on the right to construct and repair airfields during a brief Monday meeting of the subcommittee on truce supervision.

The session ended abruptly after Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang accused the Allies of intentionally delaying the negotiations "and trying to wreck the truce talks by insisting on prohibiting construction of military air bases."

Communist delegates again rejected a suspect Allied plan for exchanging prisoners of war and civilians.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby promptly submitted the plan again, and again explained it in detail.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho listened to Libby's explanation then commented: "No matter how eloquently you describe it, we cannot accept your proposal."

Both subcommittees will meet again Tuesday.

Adm. Joy told newsmen in Tokyo his conferences with Ridgway would cover only routine matters.

"There is no change in truce negotiations at Pannumjon to prompt this visit," he said.

"With each passing day there is less and less reason to think the Communists really want a stable armistice. Certainly, no one can accuse them of being in a hurry to demonstrate good faith."

Joy said the debate at Pannumjon is over the extremely practical matter of life and death for our forces and those they defend.

Crippled Ship, Captain Hit Halfway Mark

London, Jan. 7 (AP)—Unsinkable Capt. Kurt Carlsen and the Flying Enterprise were halfway to heaven today.

At 11 a. m. G. M. EST the tug Turmoil and the gale-crippled American freighter she is towing were reported 152 miles from the Cornish part of Falmouth. The tug hoped to make port sometime Wednesday.

Carlsen's heroic stand with his near-sinking vessel—which he refused to leave—had started some 300 miles west of the English coast where the Flying Enterprise almost capsized in the worst Atlantic storm in 50 years.

The U. S. Destroyer Willard Keith, escorting the tug and her charge, reported, "Condition of Enterprise unchanged." The message said the weather was cloudy, with a light fog, the sea moderate with easterly squalls, and visibility was three to six miles.

Heavier weather earlier had forced the tug to take a zig-zag course to ease the strain on the tow.

The battered Flying Enterprise today was almost flat on her port side, but still "being towed well."

The Turmoil's radio operator said in a radio telephone call to The Associated Press, He reported Capt. Carlsen "more confident than ever" that his ship would reach a safe harbor.

The Turmoil was towing the 5,711-ton Flying Enterprise at an angle of 30 degrees on her starboard bow, using a single steel wire 750 yards long with a breaking strain of only 65 tons.

"That was like a fisherman trying to land a heavy salmon on a line meant for small trout. But the Turmoil has heavy manila mooring 20 inches thick in reserve if the wire breaks."

Aboard the Flying Enterprise, Capt. Carlsen shared watches with his only companion, Mate Kenneth Dancy of the Turmoil, who jumped from the tug to the freighter early Saturday. While one slept for two hours, the other watched.

Increasing the cheeriness of the dauntless skipper was a broadcast message from his father, Mark, who flew in from Copenhagen with his wife to greet their courageous son when he finally makes land.

The gist of the message, relayed on a record from the destroyer Willard Keith—was, "We're proud of you, Kurt." Carlsen asked that it be played over twice and then, said the destroyer, "became emotional."

Deadline Near for War Prisoners to File Claims

Were you a prisoner of war? The deadline for filing of claims under the provisions of the War Claims Act of 1948 is March 31, 1952. This act provides certain benefits for military personnel and certain specified civilians who were interned as prisoners by the enemy during World War II.

The claims must be filed with the War Claims Commission, Washington 25, D. C., and must be on official form. These forms may be obtained from the commission or from the local veterans' organizations.

"We have to begin from scrap again."

In making public her letter, Father Arcand said the resources of the Philippine Red Cross were "obviously inadequate" to heal the wounds left by "a calamity involving some six-and-one-half million victims."

"We may also take into consideration," he observed, "the fact that these poor people were our most faithful, our only allies in the church being blown away."

Same Name But Not the Same Person

Last week's court docket listed a Jim May as being charged with drunk driving. The Star has been informed this is not the Jim May, Sr. or Jim May, Jr., resident of Washington.

By WILLIAM W. HUGHES

Little Rock, Jan. 7 (UP)—The announcement that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's name will go on the Republican primary election ballot in New Hampshire may jar Arkansas Republicans into holding their first preferential primary this year.

Chairman Oscar Cobb of the Republican state committee in Arkansas said today that Sen. C. A. B. Lodge's comments on Eisenhower's intentions would force the general into either confirming or repudiating the senator's statement "within the next 24 hours."

Eisenhower said in Paris today that he stood by his Republican voting record, but would not seek nomination to political office.

Cobb called Lodge's announcement a "clarifying statement."

"Things are moving as fast now, that I may call an executive committee into session within a very short time to consider plans for an Arkansas Preferential Republican primary," Cobb declared.

The state chairman pointed out that Harold Stassen already has requested a primary in Arkansas. Such elections have never been held in Arkansas because the State Republican party has been unable to finance them.

Cobb said, however, that if Eisenhower, Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, and Gov. Earl Warren of California also are willing to enter their names on an Arkansas ballot, the primary could be financed through ballot fees.

He pointed out, however, that suggested new state party rules already sent out to Republican leadership must be adopted to permit the holding of the primary at a minimum cost.

Cobb said that official approval for the primary would have to come at the Republican State convention scheduled at Little Rock for April 26. This still would permit sufficient time to hold the primary before the National Republican convention in July.

Cobb said a preferential primary would increase the strength of Arkansas Republicans and might even result in an Arkansas majority for the G. O. P. presidential nominee in the general election.

Ex-Resident of DeAnn Dies at Texarkana

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Beatrice McMillan of Tyler, Texas, Mrs. Don Hinchman of Logan, West Virginia, four sons, Iago, J. Ambrose and Lewis Clark of Texarkana and Doyle Clark of Midland, Texas.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. today at DeAnn Baptist Church by the Rev. D. O. Silvey and the Rev. Floyd Clark.

Mercury Takes Sharp Dip in Arkansas

Little Rock, Jan. 7 (AP)—Temperatures fell to below freezing throughout Arkansas last night and early today.

The minimum temperatures ranged from 20 degrees at Fayetteville and Gilbert to 29 at Texarkana. Other lows included: Filippen and Batesville 21, El Dorado 27, Pine Bluff 25, Little Rock 28 and Fort Smith 23.

The below freezing temperatures slowed down thawing of ice which covered North Arkansas after last week's storm, but indications were that it would be considerably warmer today and that the ice blanket soon would be gone.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. said all its long-distance circuits in the state were working again. Several scores were put out of service last week when ice-wedges had lines broke.

Arkansas Power and Light Co. said ice-interrupted service had been restored to nearly all its customers in rural areas. Service was restored several days ago to all suburban centers affected by the storm.

The Ouachita and White rivers continued to rise as a result of last week's heavy rains. The Ouachita at Ft. Smith went above flood stage at Camden.

Paris, Jan. 7 (UP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave his Republican supporters the green light today to go ahead with the "Ike For President" campaign, but said he would become a candidate only if he got "a clear cut call to political duty."

In a statement read to reporters, Eisenhower said that Gen. Harry Cabot Lodge, (R-Mass.), gave "an accurate account" yesterday of his political feelings but added: "I would not seek nomination for political office."

Apparently the general plans to continue his activities as head of the Western European Armies until he is convinced there is a strong movement in the United States to draft him.

"Under no circumstances will I ask for relief from this assignment this Supreme Allied Command. In order to seek nomination for political office and I shall not participate in the pre-convention activities of others who may have such an intention with respect to me," Eisenhower said.

"Of course there is no question of the right of American citizens to organize in pursuit of their common convictions."

"I realize that Senator Lodge and his associates are exercising this right in an attempt to place me before next July a duty that would transcend my present responsibilities."

"In the absence, however, of a clear-cut call to political duty, I shall continue to devote my full attention to the performance of the vital tasks to which I am assigned."

Eisenhower made his statement, which was read for him by Brig. Gen. Charles T. Lanham, his press chief, in response to the announcement by Senator Lodge at a Washington press conference yesterday that he was going to enter the supreme command in the New Hampshire primaries in March as Republican candidate.

Senator Lodge's announcement of yesterday as reported in the press gives an accurate account of the general tenor of my political convictions and of my Republican voting record," Eisenhower said.

"He was correct also in stating that I would not seek nomination to political office. I have frequently and publicly expressed my refusal to do so."

"My convictions in this regard have been reinforced by the character and importance of the duty with which I was charged more than a year ago by my country and the other nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

America's enlightened self-interest and the future of Western civilization alike demand success in our collective effort to produce security against Communism's threat and so to preserve peace."

Eisenhower said that under no circumstances would he ask for relief from his assignment in order to seek the nomination and that he would not take part in any pre-convention activities of his supporters.

Eisenhower made his statement on the first anniversary of his arrival in Europe to take the supreme command of the Western Armies which are fighting themselves to meet a possible Russian aggression.

"In honor of this anniversary," Eisenhower said, "I reflected on his views, Eisenhower said."

1. "Many advances have been made during the past year" in building up the force to stop any Russian aggression.

2. The Korean and Indo-Chinese wars against the Communists in the Far East have had an "adverse effect" on Western European rearmament.

3. "National economies have been seriously stretched" by the defense effort of the last year.

Eisenhower arrived at his supreme headquarters at 8:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. est) and got a full report of the Lodge announcement from Chief Lanham briefed him on world reaction to that and Eisenhower reacted conferring with his advisers.

Search for 'Beauty' Continues

Miami, Fla., Jan. 7 (AP) — The mystery of the Canadian beauty who vanished while fishing in the Florida Keys deepened today, and her husband was reported near collapse.

"They've got to find my wife," said short, stocky George LeMay, holding back the tears. "They've got to."

South Florida law enforcement officers were doing everything possible to locate Mrs. Hughette LeMay, 25-year-old member of a well-known Montreal French Canadian family.

Her brother, Raymond, 26, and young Montreal criminal lawyer, and the distraught husband worked closely with Deputy Sheriff James Barker in an attempt to solve the baffling case.

This was their problem: Hughette and her husband, a 26-year-old Montreal real estate dealer, were fishing on the south side of Torrey's Harbor Bridge, about 12 miles north of Marathon, Florida, last night.

At 10:30 p. m., Hughette, who was wearing shorts and a halter, left George to go back to their convertible and change into dark gowns. The distance was about 150 yards. The night was dark and overcast.

Hughette walked along the narrow, cement strip on the south side of the bridge and vanished. Later, her shorts were found in the car and a pair of dungarees, a green jacket and a white T-shirt were missing, indicating she had changed her clothes.

Young Enters Plea of Innocent

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP) — E. Earl Young, sometime RFC assassin facing perjury charges resulting from an influence peddling investigation, pleaded innocent today.

Young was originally scheduled to be arraigned before District Judge James R. Kinkaid last Friday. He fled here from Florida today. He had set Young a bond at $1,000.

Kinkaid issued a bench warrant for Young's arrest when he failed to appear Friday, but it was held in abeyance when a check showed that Young had never been arrested by Young to appear.

Young told newsmen that he never received a subpoena and that he heard about this by reading about it in a newspaper.

Young's attorney, William A. Eby, of Washington and Vernon, Texas, of Houston, Fla., also said the ex-government employee was separated from a plush hotel at Houston, Fla., did not receive notification of a Friday arraignment schedule.

Drugstore Holdups May Increase

New York, Jan. 7 (AP) — The current crackdown on illegal narcotics supplies may result in more drugstore holdups.

James C. Ryan, New York district supervisor of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, predicted yesterday a wave of holdups and forced prescriptions.

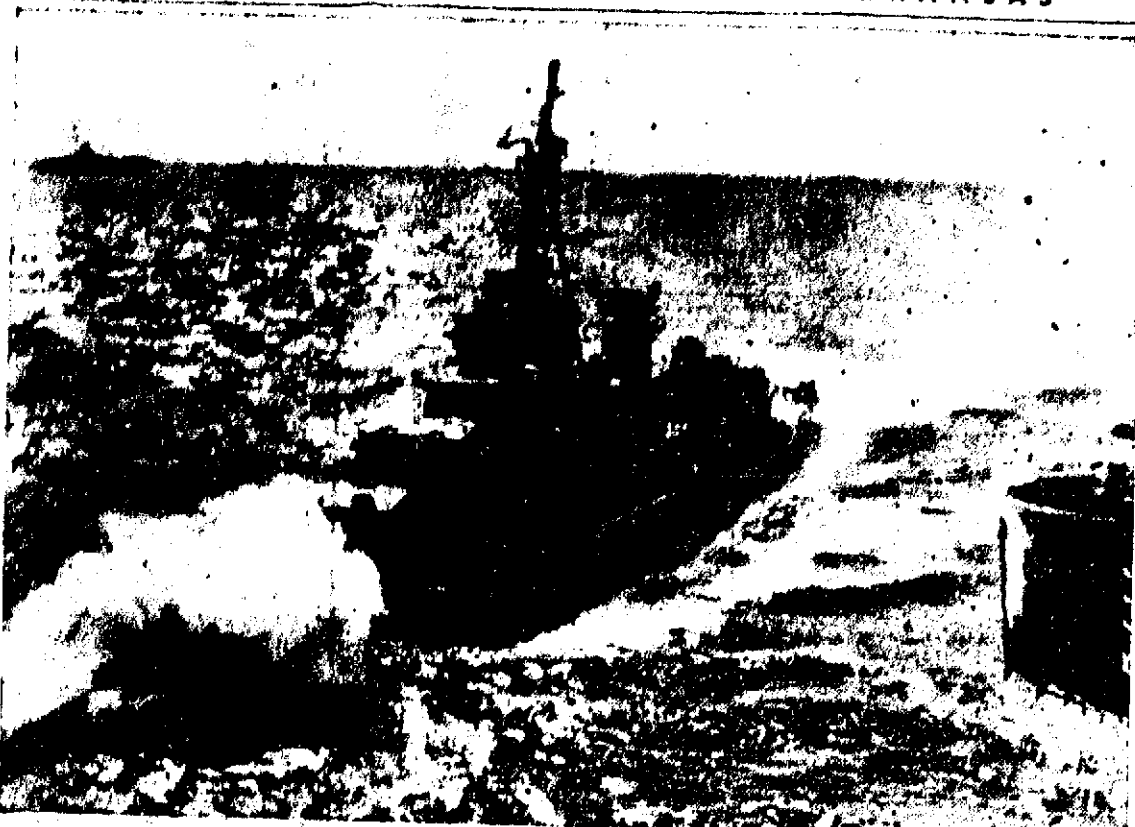

He made his statement after a roundup of scores of narcotics sellers here over the weekend. Similar roundups were made elsewhere over the country.

"Little David," perhaps the largest gun ever built, was a 30-inch long mortar designed by the U. S. Army to help break through Germany's Siegfried Line in World War II.

It said they were convinced she had been kidnapped and possibly taken to Cuba.

Carmen LeMay, 24, a sister-in-law of the missing girl, said in Montreal that Hughette "was very much in love with her husband and would never have left him voluntarily."

Maust has offered $500 reward for any clue as to her whereabouts.

THE NAVY PLUGS AWAY—While Korea truce talks grab the news spotlight, you don't hear much about the Navy's "war," but, as the picture above proves, the Navy is still very much on the scene. This is an unidentified U. S. destroyer fighting heavy seas while trying to get close enough to the U. S. carrier Essex to refuel somewhere off the coast of North Korea. The Navy's ability to apply pressure to the enemy's rear is an Allied bargaining point at the Panmunjom truce conferences.

New York Times to Back Eisenhower

New York, Jan. 7 (AP) — The New York Times announced today it will support Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower "enthusiastically" if the Republican party nominates him for President of the United States.

In a 1-2 column lead editorial, the Times said it was confident Eisenhower "would use the great power of the United States bravely, but with a sober sense of values."

The newspaper said it was convinced the popular five-star general's policy "would be peace through strength" even though it noted Eisenhower had not given a clear and unequivocal statement.

In endorsing Eisenhower, the Times joined the New York Herald Tribune in supporting the North Atlantic Theater commander for the nation's highest post.

The Times noted it had supported Democrats in three of the last five presidential elections — "not always because we favored the domestic policies of those candidates, and, in fact, in more than one instance, despite strong and openly expressed disagreement on our part with many of these policies."

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt won the Times' support in 1932, 1933 and 1944, but the newspaper threw its support to Wendell Willkie, GOP candidate, in 1940, and to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican Party's unsuccessful candidate in 1948.

"We have given our support on those occasions to the Democratic candidate essentially because we were reluctant to trust the Republican party on issues of foreign policy and because we believed these issues to be the decisive issues of the campaign, lowering high above all domestic issues — for the clear and sufficient reason that without a sound and courageous foreign policy the safety, the prosperity, even the very independence of this nation would be endangered," the editorial said.

The Times added that in Eisenhower "we have a man who shares this conviction. We are confident that he would be able to lead even the laggards among his fellow Republicans away from isolation and toward world responsibility."

Much Damage Results From Fires in State

By the Associated Press

Fire struck three times in Arkansas over the weekend, taking one life and causing damage in excess of $50,000.

Two stores in the business district of Humphrey, a tiny town of 629 population in the rice growing region of East Central Arkansas, were destroyed by an early morning blaze Sunday.

Destroyed were the Brown Appliance Co. store and F. A. Wilcox's general merchandise establishment. I. H. Mouser's general store was damaged by fire, smoke and water, said City Marshal Jim Young.

The three firms occupy adjoining sites on the Arkansas County side of division street — the main street of Humphrey and the old border between Arkansas and Jefferson counties.

Young said the fire apparently started in the rear of Brown's store and spread to the other business houses.

The city marshal said the town's volunteer fire department and one truck from nearby Stuttgart battled the blaze for two hours in near freezing temperatures before bringing it under control. Cause of the fire was not known.

There were two fires in Cotton Plant. Jethroe West an invalid, perished when fire destroyed his small frame home.

A large frame building housing the Cotton Plant Vocational Negro School was destroyed Saturday night. E. E. Willis, principal of the school, said no estimate of the damage was available.

Admiral Joy Sees Gen. Ridgway

Tokyo, Jan. 7 (AP) — Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied force envoy, arrived today for a routine visit with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander. Joy told newsmen, I came, making a merely routine visit to talk with Gen. Ridgway and there is nothing unusual about it.

There is no change in truce negotiations at Panmunjom to prompt this visit.

U. S. Jets Win Over Red Planes

8th Army Headquarters, Korea, Jan. 7 (AP) — U. S. Sabre jet fighters, outnumbered more than five-to-two, shot down two Communist MIG-15s today to boost their two-day bag to seven in the biggest air battle of the new year.

The American jets also ran up a two-day total of 12 MIG's damaged.

In accordance with the new air force policy, no announcement was made of United Nations losses, if any.

Twenty American Sabrejets tangled with more than 50 MIG's Monday morning in a 20-minute battle south of the Manchurian border town of Uiju. It was the first time in recent weeks that the air war had raged that close to Communist China's borders.

In the heaviest action since Dec. 13, the F-86 Sabrejets, outnumbered more than two-to-one, shot down five MIG's and damaged nine Sunday. In three dogfights over North Korea that ranged from 30,000 down to 10,000 feet.

One MIG was damaged by a comparatively slow-moving F-80 Shooting Star when six Communist fighters jumped four F-80's returning from a rail-cutting mission over Sinanju. Seventy-nine Allied planes took part in Sunday's engagements against 190 enemy planes.

On the ground, a Chinese Battalion hurled back a series of Allied attacks on a key mountain of the western Korean front Sunday in sub-freezing temperatures. Since U. N. infantrymen lost the hill Dec. 28, they have attempted nearly a dozen times to recapture and hold the position west of Koriungpo.

The Reds held again Sunday and threw to stiff counterattacks into advancing U. N. forces, which also were kept under heavy mortar and artillery fire. It was the day's longest and bloodiest action.

In the East, one light enemy probe was repulsed north of the Punch-bowl after a 20-minute fire fight. Action along the rest of the 149-mile front was confined to patrol encounters.

Kefauver's Name To Be Presented

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP) — Rep. Hays (D-Ohio) announced today a complete slate of delegates will be primaries for Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) for the presidential nomination.

Hays made his announcement at a news conference. Ohio law requires that a candidate for a party primary nomination enter his consent in writing before delegates may be placed upon the party ballot.

Asked if he had such a written consent from Senator Kefauver, Hays replied:

"I don't have it at the moment. But I have been in politics for 20 years and you'll just have to assume I know what I'm doing."

It was Hays who emerged from a White House conference with President Truman saying that the President would issue a statement by Feb. 1, telling whether or not he was a candidate for reelection.

The White House said Mr. Truman had not made any commitment about the date for announcing his intentions.

Hays told newsmen "there will be no repudiation of my action." The announcement was the first open move to get the ball rolling for the Tennessee Senator, who achieved nation-wide prominence over the television networks during hearings of the Senate crime investigating committee. Kefauver was chairman of the committee.

Churchill and Truman Talks Hit High Gear

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP) — High policy talks between President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill move into the second and more earnest stage today with a transcript assured of Anglo-American differences over several world danger spots.

The two chiefs of state with a full panel of advisers on each side were scheduled to meet at the White House in two sessions today. Two more working sessions are slated for tomorrow, after which a public statement on results will be issued.

Groundwork for the meetings was laid in a series of get-togethers again today between the President and Prime Minister Saturday following Churchill's arrival here.

A 75-minute conference aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg after dinner Saturday night was described by White House Press Secretary Joseph Short as having been on "the friendliest basis."

Mr. Truman, presiding at the head of the table in the ship's dining compartment, led off the discussion, in which Churchill, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, U. S. Secretary Lovett all spoke in some detail.

There was no official disclosure of what they said.

The discussion reportedly brought out as problems to be dealt with such issues as relations with Red China which Britain recognizes; the Anglo-Franco dispute over oil, which United States officials have regarded much more fearfully than the British as a potential source of new Russian trouble; and the British-Egyptian row over a Suez Canal guard force, and the Sudan, which the United States also regards as a source of possible Russian trouble.

Drive Starts for New Laws to Curb Dope

Washington Jan. 7 (AP) — A drive for tough new laws to crack down on influence peddlers and their paying clients gathered force on Capitol Hill today.

Sen. Monroney (D-Okla.), saying, "You can't take a bribe unless a crook pays it," announced he is broadening his anti-corruption bill to provide mandatory prison terms for both givers and takers of bribes.

"We have plenty of prisons for both," he said. "The smell of scandals involving tax deals, government loans and some other operations of the government indicates it's time we used them to house both."

He announced a last-minute revision of his many-toothed bill to strip courts of power to grant clemency to bribe takers and givers, except in cases where a guilty person turns state's evidence under grant of immunity.

The new provision calls for a minimum of one year in prison for taking or soliciting a bribe while on a government payroll or offering or paying one to a federal worker.

Monroney told a reporter he expects White House backing for at least parts of the bill, and has promises of bipartisan support for it among Congress members.

His measure among other points would:

1. Deny federal retirement benefits to employees or officials found guilty of a breach of public trust.

2. Forbid anyone in or out of congress, to intercede in tax cases. The section still would permit taxpayers to employ lawyers or accountants from outside the government to represent them on tax matters in the normal course of negotiations.

3. Require full disclosure of the role played by all persons, including congress members, who may intercede with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on loan matters.

Congress to Meet in New Session

Washington Jan. 7 (AP) — The 82nd Congress starts its constitutional session tomorrow, with policies likely to weigh heavily in all major actions.

The next six months are expected to bring forth decisions one way or the other, on such major matters as universal military training, foreign military and economic aid, economic controls at home, and defense spending.

Leaders are hopeful the session can wind up in time for the July political conventions.

All House seats will be at stake in the November voting. So will 12 Senate seats, as well as the presidency and the vice-presidency.

Because of the approaching elections, observers generally expect the session to be marked more by talk than by action.

President Truman will shape his legislative program in his state-of-the-union message, Wednesday. That will be followed by two more messages, one on economics and the other transmitting a federal budget expected to exceed 20 billion dollars for the year starting July 1.

The President is expected to renew his request for many of the things he has sought, and failed to get, in the past. Among these are civil rights legislation, compulsory health insurance, and tougher wage, price and rent controls.

He may ask for more taxes, since congress didn't give him as much as he wanted last year, but his chances of getting them are slim.

It isn't likely, either, that congress will go along with the President on civil rights, or anti-discrimination legislation, or on compulsory health insurance.

It probably will approve an extension of the Defense Production Act which expires June 30, but the present outlook is that the President won't get what he wants in the line of wage, price and rent controls.

Investigations, providing heavy ammunition for political campaigns will constitute a major legislative activity. Committee probes will delve into charges of graft in high places, scandals in tax law enforcement, waste of public money, and Communism.

Working under the general control of a combination of Republicans and Southern Democrats, congress is also expected to talk on some foreign policy proposals.

There is strong sentiment for a sharp curtailment of foreign military and economic aid. Many legislators who went abroad during the fall and winter months returned with the impression that foreign countries receiving U. S. help aren't carrying their full share of the rearmament and recovery load on aid for the Far East.

Others want more emphasis on aid for the Far East.

Governor Says Probers Lied

Memphis, Jan. 17 — Revenue officials who investigated Gov. McMath's income tax returns recently lied about the settlement of the case, the governor said in a statement Saturday.

McMath referred to recent newspaper reports. Neither he nor the previous reports mentioned any names.

McMath said it was obvious that some federal official had made available information taken from his income tax file and deliberately distorted this information in an attempt to embarrass and discredit him both personally and politically.

He said the newspaper article quoted federal revenue officials as saying:

"The amount paid in settlement covered, for the most part, funds given the governor as campaign contributions, which he apparently has used as personal funds, have paid a tax."

That statement is an unmitigated and malicious lie," said McMath.

WSB Starts Bid to Avert Steel Strike

Washington, Jan. 7 (AP) — The Wage Stabilization Board started its stop-the-steel-strike drive today by appealing to the industry and its CIO workers to set aside their immediate self-interest in behalf of the nation's safety.

The appeal came from board chairman, Nathan P. Feinsinger, as the full board began drafting a program for hearings which will start Thursday before a special six-man panel.

He said in a statement he is confident the strike can be headed off.

The steelworkers originally had fixed Jan. 1 for the start of a strike in support of demands for an 18-1-2 cent an hour wage increase. But the strike was put off, following a appeal by President Truman, for 45 days from the start of the WSB hearings.

Feinsinger said the safety of our country is in "jeopardy" and that the success or failure of the hearings will affect the ability of the nation to protect itself in this crisis.

The board is placing its confidence in the capacity of the United Steelworkers of America and the steel industry to meet the needs of our times," he said. "I am sure our confidence will prove not to have been misplaced."

The cases directly at issue involve 650,000 workers in companies on aid for the Far East.

whose wage contracts expired Jan. 1 but wage rates throughout industry — and in much of aluminum industry are riding the outcome of the steel dispute.

Mr. Truman referred the case to WSB with instructions to recommend a fair and equitable settlement acceptable to both parties. The WSB deliberations are expected to consume at least a month.

The union seeks, in addition to the hourly increase, a guaranteed annual wage. The workers presently make about $1.90 an hour.

The industry contends it can pay any wage boost without raising steel prices.

The contract between major companies and the union ran Dec. 31.

The wage board cannot fix any settlement. Its job is to recommend a "fair and equitable" solution — and then leave it up to both parties to accept or reject. It seemed certain some of 22 union demands would be turned to the two parties for bargaining.

The major steel companies were requested to be here for the opening procedural session. Many of them were invited.

Murray is expected to lead the union arguments.

Lincoln delivered his Gettysburg Address, Nov. 19, 1863, on the occasion of the dedication of a military cemetery.

Says Key to Peace Is Spiritual Belief

Little Rock, Jan. 7 (AP) — The United States can maintain peace in the world only by reverting to its early ideological and spiritual beliefs, said the national commander of the American Legion.

Donald R. Wilson, addressing a meeting of the Legion's Arkansas Department here yesterday, said efforts of this country to forestall a world crisis with only material resources "have failed."

It is doubtful today that England, France, Italy or other European countries we have helped can make a full contribution to the defense of Western Europe," said Wilson.

Wilson said the Korean war should be won by whatever military means are feasible.

If we continue to hedge as we are in the current peace talks, it might be thought that our nation desires peace at any price," he said.

"I see you have switched your brand of cigarettes."

"Yes, but for only one day. I pulled the wrong lever on the vending machine."

Spa Man Joins Party Staff

Washington, Jan. 7 — (UP) — The Democratic National Committee has named Lawrence Westbrook of Hot Springs, Ark., engineer, to the post of assistant chairman with the job of improving "harmony" between the committee and Democratic congressmen.

Some Democratic members of congress in the past have criticized the national committee for failing to discuss fully administration plans with party leaders in the house and senate.

Chairman Frank E. McKinney announced last night that Westbrook's major duty in the newly-created post will be to "maintain close liaison" with Democratic members of congress.

Westbrook, 62, a native of Bolton, Tex., served in the Texas legislature from 1928 to 1932 and held high federal posts during the early days of the Roosevelt administration.

DOROTHY DIX

Office Parties

Dear Miss Dix: We are three young married women with children and would greatly appreciate your honest opinion on the following. What with the holiday season upon us, our husbands will undoubtedly attend the usual office parties at which they will dine and dance with their women associates and without their wives present. Do you think this is proper?

K. L. And B.
Ahe practice of Christmas and New Years' parties in offices or other places of business, has become so firmly entrenched that all your disapproving will not curtail it. It seems to me to be rather a pleasant custom. For any business organization to fulfill its mission successfully, there must be harmonious accord among all its members. Isn't it logical that the friendliness growing among congenial business associates should have an expression in one gala event at the year's end?

They Are Innocuous
A wife with inclinations toward jealousy will naturally resent her husband's participation in such affairs — as she resents his every move where another woman is concerned. A sensible woman on the other hand, especially one who has herself been in the business world will appreciate how innocuous these things are.

Attendance at office parties is very often practically obligatory, so don't begin to berate your husbands as soon as they announce their intention of attending one. If you can trust your men with their business associates for the rest of the year, why make an exception for the holidays?

Dear Miss Dix: We have been married 41 years, and during this time my wife and I have always gotten along nicely. Since we purchased our TV set however, we are continually disagreeing over what programs each of us should see. I can't understand why my wife can't meet me halfway. I am very patient and considerate but she wants her way. After watching her choice of programs for three or four hours, I'd like to see some sporting events but she gets so mad at the suggestion, she is ready to throw things.

J. S.
Answer: After watching TV for three or four hours anyone will be ready to throw anything! This new and wonderful medium of entertainment is causing similar disruptions in most homes. They can only be solved through the give-and-take policy. Each member of the family should be allotted a certain amount of choice with everyone else abiding by it patiently.

If your wife concedes your rights to a share of the program selecting, she'll probably discover herself becoming very much interested in sports. Some of the gentlest ladies I know have become rabid wrestling fans after being exposed to the sport for a while.

Dear Miss Dix: For several months I have gone steady with a boy two years older than I. I am 16. I broke up with him and have since gone out with other boys, but not steady. Now I find that my former boy friend is spreading rumors and stories about me that aren't true. How can I stop him?

B. J. C.
Answer: This is a problem in which you could use adult help. Take your father into your confidence and let him handle the situation for you. Someone should see this former boy friend of yours and see that he stops his gossiping. If he keeps it up, your family should have a lawyer see him. This step will undoubtedly curb his lies, but I really don't think you'll have to do more than have dad talk to him. Don't let the situation continue and grow worse. Nothing is more vicious than a person who delights in tearing apart another's character. Drastic measures alone will stop them.

Question Man in Airplane Death of Girl

New Orleans, Jan. 7 (AP)—Alex Patterson, 31, of Boston, Mass., faced police questioning today in the death of a pretty, 20-year-old government worker in the crash of a private plane.

Miss Ruth Haggart, of Brookline, was killed in the crash of a twin-engine plane near Breton Island, 64 miles southeast of New Orleans.

Patterson chartered the plane to take pictures of Gulf Coast wild life. Edward Miramon, the owner, was flying it when it became lost Friday in dense fog in the Gulf of Mexico. It was not known that Miss Haggart was aboard.

More than 20 coast guard and private planes searched through fog for two days, finally sighting the wreckage early yesterday on a shoal in Breton Sound. Miss Haggart's body, badly mangled, was found in the wreckage.

Sheriff Chester Warden of Plaquemine Parish recently asked that Patterson be held for questioning. Police said that federal authorities were also interested in the case.

Miramon, operator of an amphibious service here, was in most serious condition, suffering from a crushed chest, head injuries and possible internal injuries. Patterson, who lived Miramon Friday to take him on a photography expedition along the Gulf Coast, said he remembered nothing about the crash.

"I remember doing off, and then walking to speak to Miramon. Then the next thing I recall is trying to get out of the wreckage there in the water," Patterson said.

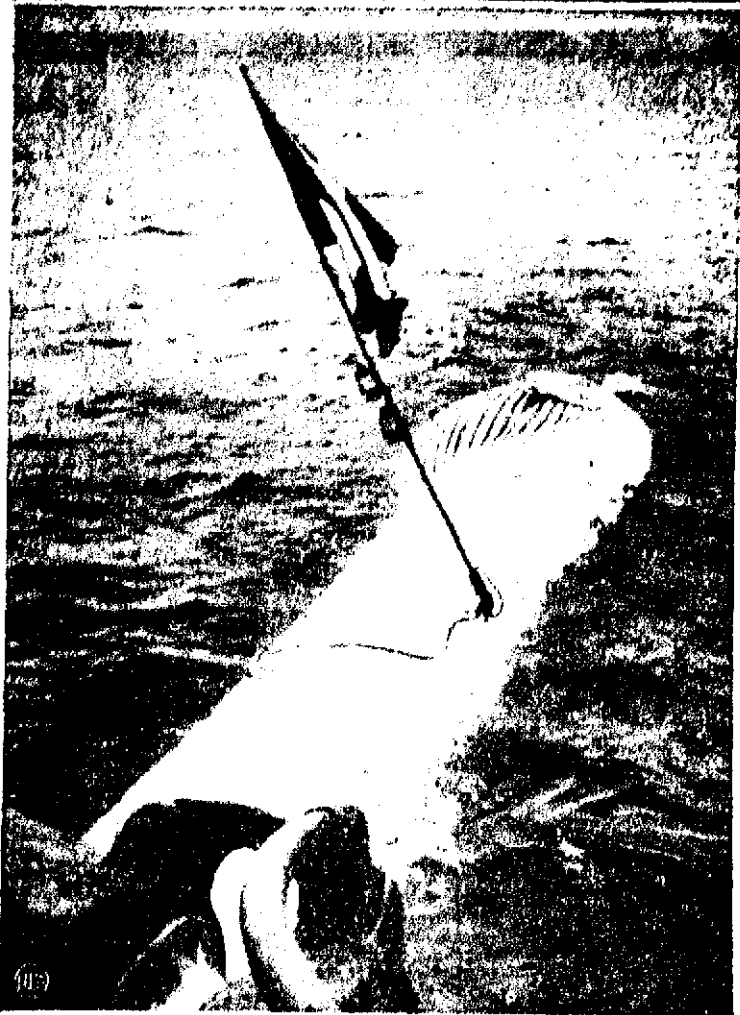

Patterson said he saw Miss Haggart here while they were both on vacation, and that he had known her for "several years." He told her of his plans for the flight, and since she had an interest in photography, agreed to go along, Patterson said.

Miss Haggart, a government worker at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, apparently died instantly. Her body, still in the plane wreckage when rescuers reached the scene, was badly mangled.

Patterson said he helped Miramon onto the shore, and that he spent all of Friday and Saturday night standing up, trying to keep warm.

"I was afraid to lie down because I might freeze; it was that cold," he said. "We had no food and no water, and when I saw those first planes Sunday it was a big relief. I waved and waved my shirt, but I was afraid they wouldn't see me."

A Soviet poet says of love: "In the Soviet Union there is no mystical treatment of love such as decadent romantic poets use. We sing of how a young man falls in love with a girl because of her big industrial output."

FLAGGED DOWN—When Chilean whalers harpoon one of the 70-foot leviathans, they cut a hole in the carcass, insert an air hose and inflate it like a giant football so it will float. A mast marker, carrying the ship's flag and two lighted oil lanterns is stuck into the body and the ship proceeds with the hunt. After the two or three-day hunt is over, the dead whales are rounded up and towed into Quintay for processing. Above, a whale, flagged and floating, awaits the last roundup.

Paymaster and $44,000 Sought

Camp Gordon, Ga., Jan. 7 (UP)—Federal officials stepped up a nationwide search today for a "moody, untalkative" Coast Guard paymaster after learning $44,000 is missing from a safe at this army post.

Warrant Officer Ernest L. Whetzel Jr., cashed a $30,000 government payroll check last Monday and turned up AWOL Thursday, pay day for 290 Coast Guard military police trainees here.

warrant officer with embezzlement. Whetzel's wife said in Charleston, S. C., that she threw her wedding rings at her husband after a domestic spat four days before he vanished from this sprawling military base. She described her husband as a "moody, untalkative man."

Lt. Theodore E. Wasko, Camp Gordon public information officer, said some time would be needed to learn exactly how much money is missing since Whetzel had made some incidental payments out of the funds in the safe.

Lt. Cdr. G. A. Mortling, assistant to the Southern Coast Guard inspector who flew here from New Orleans, said nearly $15,000 had been in the safe before the payroll check was cashed. He explained the money was used to pay off travel vouchers and make incidental payments. Only $500 was found in the safe.

It's known that $35,000 to $45,000 is missing, Mortling said, "and it is expected to run nearer $45,000."

The Coast Guard detachment went without pay until Saturday, when additional cash was flown in from Washington.

The FBI and the Army's Criminal Investigation Division were running down clues to Whetzel's whereabouts, but the only definite lead was the fact he rented a two-door two-door sedan the day before he disappeared.

Whetzel, who weighs about 180 pounds and stands six-foot, four inches tall, is a veteran of 18 years in service, 14 years in the Coast Guard.

He lived with his wife and their two children in Charleston and has a father in Washington D. C.

Would Limit State Political Campaigns

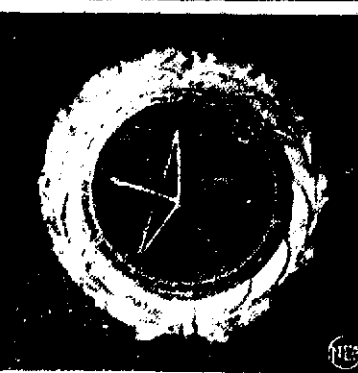

Little Rock Jan. 7 (AP)—State Sen. James Johnson of Crossett wants the state law limiting political campaign expenditures replaced by a "realistic" statute.

Interviewed yesterday by Executive Editor Harry S. Ashmore of the Arkansas Gazette on the "Arkansians In The News" radio program, Johnson frankly admitted that he has violated the law.

"Possibly every candidate in the last election violated it," he said. "I'm guilty too. But I don't think I'll be prosecuted. It's become a matter of custom and usage. The present law has been ignored and violated until it is not a law at all."

Present law limits a candidate to spending an amount equal to a year's salary of the office he is seeking.

Johnson wants the law expanded to allow an outlay of 10 times the

Costello Goes on Trial for Contempt

New York, Jan. 7 (AP)—Gambler Frank Costello goes on trial today on contempt of the Senate charges that arose from the Kefauver committee hearings.

The government charges that Costello, an immigrant boy who grew up to be a power in politics and the underworld, wronged the Senate crime committee 11 times in his appearances before it last March.

The committee called him before it to tell what he knew about crime. He had been reputed as a king of the underworld and maker and breaker of politicians.

But the Costello who appeared before the committee was shy. He allowed the television cameras to focus only on his nervous hands.

He was reticent about answering some questions. Some—involving his wealth and political connections—he refused to answer at all although warned he would be cited for contempt.

Twice he walked out of the hearings, complaining he was ill. Soon afterward he was indicted, then re-indicted Dec. 5.

The contempt charges could mean 11 years in prison and a $11,000 fine.

It won't be the 60-year-old Costello's first trip to court. He was convicted in 1915 of carrying a gun—his only conviction although he often has been arrested and indicted.

He introduced a bill to this effect in the 1951 General Assembly but it died in committee. He is now trying to get a similar measure on the ballot in the November general election as an initiated act.

Arkansas GOPs Plan Active State Drive

By The Associated Press

Arkansas Republicans — usually a comparatively silent clan — are showing signs that they plan to "rattle their shields" in this presidential election year.

Over the weekend, party leaders in Arkansas let it be known that they would seek to commit the national party to a "bold and realistic" presidential campaign in Dixie in 1952.

They probably would adopt a set of rules which significantly, omit qualifications for party membership in Arkansas.

Oso Cobb, chairman of the GOP State Committee, said Sunday that Southern Republicans are going to insist that the party's candidates stamp the South.

Cobb, who has served on the resolutions committee at the last two Republican conventions, said he would present written endorsements of this policy from Southern GOP leaders to the committee when the convention meets at Chicago in July.

Dixie Republicans want the party also to:

1. Send Republican congressmen into the South for speaking tours.

2. Predicate the party's bid for national power on an open expression and sincere desire to give all sections fair treatment.

3. Support local Republican candidates as a means to develop a real two-party system in the strongly Democratic South.

4. Give the South an affirmative party in carrying out the national party's program commensurate with its contribution to these aims.

Saturday, Cobb said that a set of rules for the party in Arkansas, drafted by a subcommittee of the state committee, was aimed at throwing the gates open to any qualified elector who wants to support Republican candidates or help them.

The rules, first ever to be drafted for the party in Arkansas, also would contemplate the possibility of presidential preferential primaries.

Harold E. Stassen, a candidate for the Republican nomination this year, has requested such a primary
